

REQUEST TO CONTINUE FUNDING FOR AN EXISTING FACULTY WORKING GROUP

Dresher Center Faculty Working Groups are eligible for continued funding, contingent on the group having:

- A stable membership of at least three members across two departments and a majority faculty/staff membership;
- Met regularly (at least 3-4 times) in the previous semester;
- A well-defined subject matter and a refined mission;
- Spent its funds according to the program's guidelines and university regulations;
- Submitted an adequate end-of-semester report.

To be considered for continued funding, a group must:

- Present a clear plan for future activities, including focused meetings, readings, events, or shared projects;
- Have a plan for the specific use of its funds;
- Demonstrate ongoing interest among at least three members across two departments and a majority faculty/staff membership.

At the end of the second year of funding, the group will submit a report on its meetings, readings, events, or shared projects, and a sample of specific faculty or graduate student research, grants, projects, publications or events it expects to emerge from these activities.

At the end of the third and future years of funding, the group will submit a report on its meetings, readings, events, or shared projects, and a sample of specific faculty or graduate student research, grants, projects, publications or events its activities have supported.

Groups may request up to $750 per semester or $1,500 per year. Funds will normally be provided on an annual (academic year) basis, but other requests will be considered.

Deadlines for best consideration are November 1st for groups beginning in the spring semester and May 30th for groups beginning in the fall semester.

To apply for continuation funds, the group's leader should complete and submit the Dresher Center Faculty Working Groups Request for Continued Funding Form and a 500-word statement outlining the group's humanities-based focus and purpose, and the planned use of funds. The statement will discuss

- Recent and planned activities;
- Membership;
- Schedule of meetings;
- Ways the group meets the criteria for continued funding.

To apply, complete the Dresher Center Request for Continuation Funding Form and email dreshercenter@umbc.edu by the deadline. Please contact us with questions.
